

METHODS' Train of Trainers Workshop on Modern Learning Modalities at Wolverhampton, United Kingdom, March 27-31, 2017

Report as pdf

During the week of 26-31 March 2017, a train of trainers workshop was conducted at University of Wolverhampton in United Kingdom to train the faculty members and administrative staff from the project partner universities in Jordan and Palestine on different modern learning methodologies.

During the training week, the participants received a training on Problem Based Learning (PBL), Competency Based Learning (CBL), E-Learning Pedagogies, MOOCS, Flipped Learning, Agile Learning, and the integration between the Competency Based Learning (CBL) and Problem Based Learning (PBL).

In addition, the participants underwent a Digital Habits questionnaire in order to evaluate the acquired skills before and after the training week.

In the last day of training, the participants was requested to design and make Mini-prototyping of their courses with coaching from the trainers.

